Armed Robbers Get $850 in Holdup of Bucyrus Club

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Dec. 1—Armed robbers early this morning held up the custodian of the Moose club here and escaped with $850 in cash in the second robbery here in less than a week.

At 1 o'clock this morning William Cooper, about 60, was alone in the club rooms and was preparing to close for the night when he heard a knock at a side door. Thinking it was nothing unusual, since members of the club sometimes use this door, Cooper answered the call. When he opened the door he was confronted by a masked bandit armed with a revolver.

Stepping quickly into the room the robber pushed Cooper into a telephone booth and told him to stay there. The robber closed the door and ripped off the phone wires.

Counting Day's Receipts

When the robber entered Cooper was counting the day's receipts from the club room. He had $300 ready to be placed in the safe. This was taken, together with another locked cash box containing $500 and about $50 in miscellaneous funds.

How many other men later entered the room Cooper was unable to tell police, but he was of the opinon there were four or five, judging from the sound of footsteps and voices.

Cooper said the men were in the club not more than five minutes. They left by another door. At the time of the robbery all members had left the club.

Cooper remained in the phone booth with the door closed until he heard the men leave. Then he reported the robbery to police.

Part of Face Covered

Cooper told police the robber who confronted him at the door was between 45 and 50 years old. He had a white handkerchief over the lower part of his face.

Police are investigating to determine if Cooper's description of the robber tallies with any of the five men who robbed the Palm Supper Club and 100 patrons of an undetermined amount of money here early Sunday morning.

2 MARION DOCTORS TO BE ASSOCIATED

Dr. J. L. Plymale and Dr. J. A. McNamara Announce Plan.

Announcement was made today that Dr. Jay L. Plymale, recently placed on inactive duty with the Army medical corps, and Dr. John Alfred McNamara will be associated in the practice of medicine in offices at 367 South Main street.

Dr. Plymale will resume surgical and orthopedic practice. Dr. McNamara specializes in obstetrics and infant pediatrics.

Plans for the enlargement of the present offices are now under way and will include the addition of six rooms. When completed there will be facilities for laboratory and X-ray service and physiotherapy equipment for the treatment of fractures and arthritis.

Dr. McNamara, a graduate of Loyola University in Chicago in 1933, served as intern at Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati and later was resident obstetrician at Lewis Memorial hospital in Chicago. He is the president of the Marion county Academy of Medicine, chief of staff at City hospital and a member, recently appointed, of the advisory board of emergency maternity and infant care program of Ohio. The program, under federal control, is handled through the departments of health in each state. Dr. McNamara is one of six Ohio doctors named to the board. He has been in practice here for more than 10 years.

Dr. Plymale was graduated from Washington University in St. Louis in 1936 and served four years resident training in surgical and orthopedic work at Ohio State university. He started practice here in offices located in the Marion building in 1940 and was there until he enlisted in the Army medical corps in 1942.

At the time of his release from active duty he held the rank of major and served with the 32nd evacuation hospital unit and the 131st general hospital unit. He saw service in Ireland, England, France, Germany and Austria.

The last four months before his return to the states he attended a course conducted for Army orthopedic surgeons at the Faculte de Medicine de Paris and later served as instructor.

He was returned to the states Oct. 1 and was placed on inactive duty Oct. 20. His wife and two children, now in St. Louis where they have been living for the past two years, will return next week to their home at 305 Powhattan street.

County Tops Overall Goal In Victory Loan but E Bonds Lag

Friday's Sales Raise Total to $2,892,965; E Bond Purchases Still Far Below $562,650 Quota.

The Victory Loan in Marion county went over the top yesterday by more than a half million dollars, reaching a total of $2,892,965.75. Friday's sales of $690,031 put the total sales for the drive at $670,965.75 in excess of the county's quota of $2,223,000.

Satisfaction of the Marion County War Finance Committee in seeing the drive go over the top was tempered, however, by the fact that E bonds are still far short of the goal. It is this series of bonds, the one most widely distributed to the general public, that has received special emphasis in the Victory Loan as well as the seven preceding war financing drives.

Total sales of E bonds for the Victory Loan today stands at $342,786.75. Including yesterday's sales of $30,412.50. The county's quota is $562,650.

E bond sales are only 60 per cent of the county quota.

E. J. Schoenlaub, chairman, and Robert E. White, co-chairman, of the County War Finance Committee, today declared the drive on E bonds would be speeded up for the remainder of this month in an effort to reach the quota. Although the Victory Loan drive officially ends Dec. 8, E bonds will be counted toward the county quota through Dec. 31.

Will Finish the Job

The drive chairmen said: "Marion county has met its quota, including E bonds, in every war financing drive unto this time, and we are not going to fall down on this one. It will take work, but we will do it."

Mr. Schoenlaub urged all Victory Loan drive workers to renew their efforts, with special emphasis on E bonds.

Members of the county committee expect the approach of Christmas to spur the sale of E bonds. Many people are expected to buy them as Christmas presents for members of the families.

Boosted by School Sale

The two day sale of E bonds conducted Wednesday and Thursday in Marion public and parochial schools gave the E bond total a big boost with sales of $71,204.75. Most of these bonds now have been included in total for this series. A few still are being written in Marion banks.

The school drive was the only concerted citywide effort on the sale of E bonds in the Victory Loan.

School activities will be continued when pupils will make a canvass of every home in the city to provide everyone an opportunity to buy.

Elementary pupils will make the canvass Monday. Where a desire is expressed to purchase a bond the pupil will report to the junior high school in the district and a bond salesman will call on Tuesday to take the application and collect the money. The bonds will be written by Marion banks and delivered to the purchaser.

In addition to E bonds other sales yesterday included the following: series F $18.50, series G $1,500, series C $100, treasury 2½s $305,000, treasury 2½ $253,000, treasury 2½ $100,000. A total of 799 bonds were written yesterday to bring the total for the drive to 6,065.

County's Score in Victory Loan

County quota	$2,223,000.00
Sales to date	2,892,965.75
E Bond quota	562,650.00
E Bond sales	342,786.75

PUPILS CONTINUING CANNED FOOD DRIVE

Collection Made Here To Aid War Stricken Countries.

With a goal of 2,000 cans of food, pupils of St. Mary school have been busy during the past week canvassing their respective neighborhoods for canned food in an effort to meet the set requirement.

The national campaign planned to relieve the desperate food shortage facing the people of Europe and the Far East is being conducted under sponsorship of the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference with Rev. James J. Carroll, assistant pastor of St. Mary church, named as chairman for Marion and Morrow counties.

The food already collected will not be taken to the school until next Wednesday, Father Carroll said. At that time it will be possible to estimate the number of cans already received and if necessary an extra drive will be staged from Dec. 9 to 16 by the pupils so the goal of 2,000 cans will be reached.

All Marionites, regardless of creed, are asked to aid in this campaign to relieve the hunger of the people made homeless and helpless by the war.

SOVIET DELAY AIDS CHIANG GOVERNMENT

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, Dec. 1—Russia has agreed to delay withdrawal of Soviet forces from Manchuria until Jan. 3, the Chinese government announced today.

The agreement will enable Chinese government personnel to take over the administration of Manchuria and will permit Chinese government troops to move in before the Soviet withdrawal is completed, the announcement stated.

It was for this purpose, the government said, that the date was changed. The Russians had been scheduled to withdraw Dec. 3, but Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek feared Chinese Communists would assume control if Soviet forces were evacuated that soon.

Chinese government troops are driving toward Mukden. Dispatches reported the Nationalists advancing along the Peiping-Mukden railroad have reached a point 20 miles from Tahushan, 65 miles west of Mukden.

Marine Corps Opens 2-Year Enlistments

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — For the first time in 25 years the Marine Corps opened its ranks today to youths who want to limit their hitch to two years.

Men 17 to 25 years old will be accepted without prior military service. Those 26 to 31 who have been in the forces within a year may re-enlist. If they sign up after 90 or fewer days as civilians they will receive their old rank, the Marine Corps announced last night.

Enlistments also will be accepted for the three and four year terms which have been the rule since 1939.

Russians Evacuate Forces from Tehran

By The Associated Press

TEHRAN, IRAN, Nov. 30—(Delayed)—The Russians began carrying out a surprise evacuation of Tehran last night.

The railway station, communications centers and private billets including the military headquarters were completely evacuated.

The Iranian foreign ministry said the Russian note refusing passage of Iranian troops into trouble spots of northwestern Iran asserted "fighting and bloodshed would break out" if Iranian troops entered the territory.

TRUMAN, VETS AT GAME

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—President Truman, taking along five disabled soldiers, left the capital today to join 102,000 other fans at the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia. Although an old Army man, Mr. Truman went to the game as a neutral observer. He arranged to sit on the Army side during the first half and on the Navy side during the last half.

BRITISH NAB 76 NAZIS

By The Associated Press

ISERLOHN, GERMANY, Dec. 1—Seventy-six steel magnates representing Ruhr industries worth billions of dollars were arrested at their homes last night in a series of raids by British security police and troop. The raids were so thorough only eight of the original list of 84 marked for arrest were not apprehended. A director of the August Thyssen steel works was embarrassed when the British said they found him in a bedroom with the blond 24-year-old daughter of a baron.

HOPE SEEN AS PARLEY CLOSES

Labor-Management Leaders Admit Goals Not Reached, Predict Future Gains.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — Leaders of the national labor-management conference, admitting their gains had fallen short of their goals, today saw in its completed deliberations hope for the future.

Their statements were overshadowed by speculation whether John L. Lewis' closing appeal for unity in the policies of leadership of "the house of labor" meant he might return to the AFL.

The man who split off from AFL to form CIO and then split off from CIO to run his United Mine Workers as an independent union told the labor delegates they had worked at a disadvantage in the face of the management group's "organized, efficient functioning" while the labor groups quarreled.

Battle at Finish

The conference became a labor battleground for a time in its final, full session late yesterday. AFL and CIO offered rival resolutions calling for genuine collective bargaining and nationwide wage increases.

The management delegation voted against both resolutions and stuck to one of its own saying wage levels were not the conference's business. No resolution was adopted.

The conference closed in disagreement on three major subjects — collective bargaining and observance of contracts, on management's right to manage, and on jurisdictional disputes.

Agree on Arbitration

Its chief accomplishment, in the view of most leaders, was agreement that arbitration, instead of strikes and lockouts, should be the final word in grievances arising under existing labor contracts.

Another was that the U. S conciliation service should be strengthened, with an advisory committee representing labor and management.

The delegates also approved a permanent panel of top industry and labor leaders, to continue the quest for labor harmony.

The meeting failed to produce any new machinery, however, such as voluntary arbitration of impartial fact-finding, for the peaceful settlement of present strikes or future stoppages growing out of labor's demand for new contracts.

NAZIS TRY MASS SUICIDE

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1 — Approximately 600 German military internees, including 100 who attempted suicide or self-mutilation, were hospitalized today after a day of violence during which the Swedish government began the extradition of 2,700 former German army soldiers to Soviet territory. The other 900 were suffering from the effects of a week-long hunger strike.

Probers Dig At Jap Code Story

Committee Seeks Facts on Smashing of Foe's Secret Messages.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Pearl Harbor investigators today skirted one of the war's top military secrets—how we broke the Japanese code — in their scrutiny of events preceding the Pacific bastion attack almost four years ago.

In an inquiry into operation "Magic," as the war department called the code-breaking project, the senate-house committee ordered up the work sheets of cryptographers who pieced out the meaning of Japanese military and diplomatic messages.

The committee took a holiday until Monday.

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn) and Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said the objective was to find out how much time was consumed in Washington reducing the messages to English and getting the information into the hands of the President, chief of staff, secretary of war and others.

Cooper yesterday noted that a lengthy message sent Nov. 24,

EZRA S. GEDDIS, 92, DIES AT CALEDONIA

Survived by Wife He Married 68 Years Ago.

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, Dec. 1 — Ezra Sanders Geddis, 92, oldest resident of Caledonia and retired rural mail carrier, died at 8:15 last night in his home following an illness of a week. He was a resident of Caledonia 80 years and before becoming a mail carrier out of the Caledonia postoffice, operated a meat market here. He retired from his government position in 1920. He and Mrs. Geddis celebrated their sixty-eighth wedding anniversary last May.

Ezra S. Geddis

Born Sept. 16, 1853 in Somerset county, N. J., he was a son of Thomas and Rebecca Sanders Geddis. In 1877 he married Emma Jane Smith in Caledonia. He was a life member of Calanthe Lodge No. 116, Knights of Pythias, and was a member of Memorial Methodist church.

Surviving besides his widow are a daughter, Miss Fayette Geddis, at home, a son, Chester Geddis of 832 East Church street, Marion, and four grandchildren. He was the last of a family of six. An only surviving niece, Mrs. J. W. Hungate, lives in Marion.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Timson-Allen funeral home here by Rev. S. E. Kestzel of the Methodist church. Burial will be in Caledonia cemetery. Friends may call at the Geddis home until noon Monday.

CONFESSION OF FAKE AMNESIA BRINGS ORDER

Hess Displays Relief; Defense Quizzes General on Nazi War Policies.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1—The international military tribunal ruled today that Rudolf Hess, who confessed he had been faking amnesia, must continue to stand trial with 19 other Nazi leaders accused of war crimes.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, announced no further mental examinations of Hitler's former deputy were necessary and that he was capable of standing trial.

Hess, who had paid scant attention to early portions of the trial, created a sensation yesterday when he told the court he had simulated loss of memory for "tactical" reasons and announced he would stand responsible for all his actions.

Appears Relieved

Hess appeared relieved by his confession and for the first time engaged in lively conversation with other prisoners.

Defense council got a chance at cross-examination when the court recalled Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen, leading German army intelligence officer whose testimony yesterday placed the blame for mass murder of Polish and Russian prisoners on Hitler and the high command's chief of staff, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, one of the Germans on trial.

Asked if he and other professed anti-Hitler military leaders knew the attitude of Franz von Papen, former German diplomat and one of the defendants, toward the Nazi war policies, General Lahousen replied:

"I recall Canaris said they were negative." He referred to Admiral Wilhelm Canaris, German spy expert described as leader of a secret anti-Hitler military clique until his execution after the unsuccessful 1944 bomb plot against the fuehrer.

Lahousen denied knowledge of the murder of 50 RAF fliers when they were recaptured after escaping from a German prison camp.

Defense Try Fails

Field Marshal Keitel's attorney, Otto Nelte, unsuccessfully tried to gain an admission from Lahousen that Austrian military leaders favored the anschluss by which Austria was taken into the Reich.

Lahousen declared Field Marshal Keitel demanded both military and political obedience from the army.

Nelte declared Keitel had denied Lahousen's testimony of yesterday that the high command chief had ordered the assassination in 1940 of French General Maxime Weygand, generalissimo at the time of France's defeat.

Dr. Fritz Sauter, counsel for former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, told Lahousen von Ribbentrop "in his capacity of foreign minister went to Keitel and pointed out that he—as protector of international rights—objected to the branding of Russian prisoners."

The army officer merely replied he didn't know about it.

Hess Amuses Nazis with Talk of How He Fooled Experts

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1 — Rudolf Hess, childishly self satisfied at getting the spotlight in the international war crimes trial, today amused his fellow Nazi defendants with his tale of faking amnesia before the world.

Hess had Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz and Erich Raeder shaking with laughter when he told them how he pretended loss of memory and partial insanity.

Hess boasted of his skilled navigation on his mysterious flight to Britain four years ago when questioned in his cell before the trial by Maj. Douglas Kelley, U. S. Army psychiatrist.

He confirmed reports he had left a note to Hitler telling him he was going to appeal for peace in the hope of what he called saving civilization from Bolshevism.

Kelley said he had not told any correspondent Hess had planned to take King George back to Germany.

Kelley said all Hess told him was that he hoped to make an appeal to the King of England to help stop the war.

Caledonia Nabs Top Cage Opener in County League on Flood of Free Tosses

Capitalize on Prospect Fouls for Victory; Morral, Kirkpatrick, New Bloomington, Claridon Win.

Caledonia, Morral, Kirkpatrick and New Bloomington took last night's opening games in the Marion County Basketball league Claridon defeated Meeker 47 to 22 last Monday night in a game moved up to allow other school activities last night LaRue and Pleasant were not scheduled for loop play last night

The closest game was the contest at Prospect with Caledonia winning 36 to 22. The Prospectors outscored the winners 9 to 6 on field goals but ability to make free throws gave the Donians victory. Freet for Caledonia led the scorers with 13 points as he tallied two field goals and nine charity tosses. Verne Kirby led the losers' offense with 11 points Prospect led at the first quarter 6 to 4 but Caledonia took the lead at the intermission 11 to 9

Win in Third Frame

A big third quarter determined the outcome as Caledonia grabbed 13 points to 3 for Prospect Coach Reed's boys made a determined fight in the last stanza by outscoring the winners 10 to 12 but their rally fell short as the time ran out

Smith, fast Caledonia forward, missed the game because of a sprained ankle received in practice Seebach of Prospect also injured an ankle during the game.

New Bloomington picked up the trail they left in the tournament last March by winning over Martel 36 to 17, grabbing a first quarter lead 9 to 3 and tallying 13 points in the second session to 4 for the losers. Martel outscored Coach Alexander's quintet in the third period 6 to 1 but again led activities in the final quarter 13 to 4. Harry Boles of New Bloomington led scorers with 14 points Pangborn topped the losers offense with 8 points. The game was played at New Bloomington.

Herd Sets Pace

Kirkpatrick, with Dick Herd setting the pace, defeated Green Camp 36 to 23 The lanky Herd dropped in 8 baskets and three free throws to garner 19 points and the night's league scoring honors Johnson led the Campers with 9 points Kirk outscored the losers in every period except the third when Green Camp tallied 6 to Kirk's 5.

Morral showed possibilities as a contender with a 25 to 10 decision over a strong Waldo quintet. The Morral boys outscored Coach Furniss's team in each quarter and held them to only three goals from the field. Scoring was evenly divided between three Morral tossers as D. Hensel, L. Hensel and Merritt tallied 7 points each.

The game between Meeker and Claridon originally scheduled for last night was played Monday night with Coach Augenstein's lads winning 47 to 22 on their own floor. Jim Ruth led the scorers with 15 points and Wilson totaled 12 markers for Meeker

Football Helps "Trigger Man" Davey O'Brien

Davey O'Brien when he set passing records for Texas Christian university.

The O'Brien arm and fingers that passed so accurately fire a pistol unerringly.

Davey, using a silhouette of a man to show vital areas, counts his score.

By BUS MAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—Shortly before the war the name of diminutive Davey O'Brien disappeared from the sports pages The little guy from Texas became an FBI man

So when Davey popped up the other day, he was deluged with questions The principal one was whether his football experiences fitted him for a career in the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Davey's answer was as quick and sure as his passes that Dec. 1 in 1940 when he completed 33 throws for Philadelphia against Washington's Redskins in a record performance for professional football.

"Sure, football helped me prepare for the FBI," he said 'Football taught me that I can meet people under any circumstances That's the big thing."

Like all FBI men, the modest, 5-foot-6 150-pound former Texas Christian and Philadelphia Eagles passing expert has been in some pretty tight spots, from drawing room to bar, particularly during the war.

"You have to have confidence in yourself in such situations, and that's what football give you," he said. "You learn to cope with the situation when it arises. You find out about team-play, and there's a lot of that in the FBI."

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, likens his organization unto a football team no agent can say that he broke this or that case the team does it

Hoover also feels that every agent must have some of the qualities that make an outstanding athlete — courage, alertness, ability to quickly orient himself.

'An athlete's experience is a plus value as an FBI agent, other qualifications being equal," Hoover says

Most FBI agents have legal backgrounds, but Davey as a Texan knew about oil fields. The FBI reasoned that the black-gold areas would be subject to sabotage during the war if history repeated itself

So Davey became an expert in that field Eventually he handled every type of FBI case

And the steady right arm and clear eye that made him an accurate passer in football enabled O'Brien to develop into one of FBI's crack pistol shots.

He once fired 10 straight "possibles"—a record unequalled on FBI's range. A "possible" is scored by placing all shots on vital spots of a silhouette of a man from varying distance and positions

Yes, Davey would like to take his marksmanship back to the football field—maybe just for a game or two—but that isn't likely because the FBI again got its man. Davey loves it.

GIANTS HOPING FOR UPSET OVER EAGLES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—Steve Owen's oft-beaten New York Giants, who ruined Detroit's playoff hopes with an upset victory two weeks ago, have high hopes of knocking Philadelphia out of a first-place tie in the National Football league's eastern division

The two teams collide tomorrow in the most important game of the final "big" Sunday of the pro campaign

It's just another ball game to the Giants but it's a must for Greasy Neale's club which is deadlocked with Washington for the division lead

The Redskins take on the last place Pittsburgh Steelers Both leaders are favored to win, sending the title race down to the final Sunday of the campaign

If the two teams finish in a tie, the playoff game has been set for Philadelphia, Dec 16 with the winner meeting the Rams in Cleveland, Dec 23. If there is no deadlock, the championship contest will be played Dec. 16.

Second place in the western half is at stake when Green Bay tangles with Detroit.

Adam Walsh's Rams, with the western crown tucked away in their locker, get a final workout for the championship game by entertaining the Boston-Brooklyn Yanks

The Chicago Cardinals will be shooting for a second straight over the Chicago Bears.

Deer Season Opens Monday

About One Hunter in 100 Expected To Bag One of Few in Ohio.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1—Ohio's deer population, none too great at its best, is scheduled for its annual reduction beginning Monday when between 6,000 and 8,000 hunters start their search for the fast-running, elusive animals.

Although that many hunters are expected to be out between Monday and Dec. 8 when the season closes, there probably won't be more than one in a 100 that gets his deer

Last year, the recorded kill was 117 which figured up to one for each 112 hunters

State conservation department officials reported today that herds are more widely scattered than in 1944

Deer can be hunted only in a 60,000 acre tract of Scioto, Pike and Adams counties

The conservation department has made it a little easier this year for the hunters The permits maye be obtained at the conservation department offices here or at any of the district offices and the hunters are not required to check in and out when they go hunting as required last year.

The conservation department requests that no shots be fired within 400 feet of a road; that loaded guns not be carried in automobiles and that all hunters wear something red as a safety precaution.

Deer may be killed only with shotguns loaded with a single ball or with bows and barbless arrows.

LaRue Nabs Win No. 3 Over Byhalia 52 to 30

The LaRue cagers won their third victory of the season last night by defeating Byhalia 52 to 30 on the losers' floor. Bardgell, elongated center of the Union county team, led the point parade with 19 points Davis tallied 15 markers for LaRue although leaving the game in the third quarter with a sprained ankle. The LaRue reserves continued to copy the varsity with a 42 to 12 victory.

GREEN CAMP — Green Camp High school basketball team will play Nevada High in a return practice game on the Green Camp floor next Tuesday Recently Nevada won at Nevada.

Waite Plays Canton Today in "Title" Tilt

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Dec 1—Maybe they won't be deciding Ohio's high school football championship here today but some 22 000 fans from Toledo and Canton insist this is it—the tilt between Toledo Waite and Canton Lincoln

Waite has won 10 straight games and Lincoln has won seven and tied two—its ties coming with Canton McKinley and Massillon, a couple of ball clubs in the northeastern Ohio high school football hotbed involved in a most confusing set of deadlocks.

OHIO CONFERENCE TO KEEP FRESHMAN RULE

Wartime Playing of First Year Athletes Continues.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. Dec 1 — Ohio conference coaches and athletic directors have voted to retain a major wartime innovation—freshman participation in varsity sports— for the present"

School officials in a meeting last night also extended individual eligibility time from three to four years of participation in a sport

The peacetime rule governing graduate students was resumed and they were declared ineligible for varsity competition During the war, they were permitted to play

Conference heads also returned to the old transfer rule for civilians, declaring a transfer athlete must have a year of residence before becoming eligible at the second school.

It was stressed that in the case of servicemen, the transfer ruling would not apply

John Van Why, Wittenberg athletic director and former chairman of the conference's postwar eligibility committee, was named to the full time eligibility committee, succeeding the late L. C Boles

Denison athletic chief Walter J Livingston was elected president, succeeding R. V Smith, and Karl Ver Steeg was named vice president.

The group will meet at Toledo March 23 in conjunction with the state high school basketball tournament and another session is scheduled at Oberlin May 31.

The following dates were set for conference meets:

Swimming — March 9 at Oberlin, golf—May 25 at Wooster; tennis—May 25 at Kenyon, and track—June 1 at Oberlin.

Marion Soldier Wins Title, Plans Pro Boxing Career

Sgt. Howard E. Hodges Gets Welter Crown at Barksdale Field in 3-Rounder.

Sgt Howard E. Hodges, former Marion fighter, has won the welterweight championship at Barksdale Field, La. according to newspaper clippings received from Shreveport. He defeated Perry Paus in a championship three-round fight, his devastating left hook being the deciding factor.

Hodges, former Golden Glove champion of Marion, started fighting in 1938 under the leadership of Jimmy Williams, trainer and former boxer here, and since that time has competed in 44 fights losing five.

He was runner-up for state in 1939 at Columbus In 1940 he again fought his way to the finals of the state elimination, losing then to Harry Crawford

In his reconversion plans as a private citizen he plans to again take up boxing but as a professional under the hands of Jimmy Williams.

Pacific Veteran Says Service Hurts Athletes

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—John T. Hanley, Dartmouth track captain back from the Pacific fleet, jogged around the field to prevent his sea legs from stiffening The Chicago-born speedster had just won the coveted IC4A cross-country crown in 28 21 3

"I should've done better,' he panted.

It was the first time the stocky 22-year-old hill-and-dale had ever run five miles. Veteran track observers were impressed by his stellar performance They were even more amazed that he started his track career only Last year.

Hanley spent three years in the Navy and is presently completing his V-12 training

Old-Fashioned!

The Army and Navy athletic programs, with the exception of Annapolis and West Point, are old fashioned he said. "They have probably hurt good track stars more than they have helped them.

Their idea of training is that if a serviceman has big muscles he is in condition. However, I realize that the armed forces aren't interested in making track stars continued Hanley.

"Marching might help the novice because it strengthens the legs But a man who is already in condition loses all his spring and gets stiff.

"Take the case of Dwight Edelman, the Illinois State champ Before he went into the Army he cleared the high jump bar at 6 feet 7 inches Last year at the Penn Relays, he strained to do 6 feet 3."

Started in High School

Hanley became interested in cross-country while attending high school in Kansas City and romping over the hills and woods.

When he entered Dartmouth last year, John wanted to wrestle but the Indians didn't have a catch-as-catch-can team, so the shy youth tried out for track. Harry Hillman, Big Green track mentor, took the smooth strider under his tutelage and soon he was sparking the squad.

Last August, Harry Hillman died and to young Hanley, who joined the squad "because I liked Harry," fell the mantle of unofficial coach

Hanley hopes to compete in the 1948 Olympics, running in the 5,000 or 10,000 meters.

"Valley of Decision" Stars Greer Garson and Gregory Peck.

"The Valley of Decision" starring Greer Garson and Gregory Peck, and "Sleepy Lagoon" with Judy Canova and Dennis Day will be shown midnight Saturday through Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is the story of the Scotts, who have built a steel empire, and Mary Rafferty, the girl from across the tracks who comes to work as a servant in the big Scott house. The story in the latter deals with a small town which suddenly becomes the center of wartime activity. Racketeers attempt to take the money away from the working people so the people of the town decide to elect all-feminine city officials, with Judy as the mayor.

"Within These Walls" starring Thomas Mitchell, Mary Anderson and Edward Ryan and "A Medal for Benny" with Dorothy Lamour and Arturo de Cordova will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

The former is the story of a newly appointed warden of a state penitentiary and of his young son and daughter who come to live within the walls of the place. The latter tells of a community in lower California and the honor which comes to one of its citizens following the announcement that Benny, his son, was to be awarded the country's highest honor postumously.

"Thunderhead—Son of Flicka" starring Roddy McDowall, Preston Foster and Rita Johnson, and "Outlaws of the Rockies" with Charles Starrett will be shown through Saturday.

The former is a sequal to "My Friend Flicka" which is concerned with a pet horse and how they attempt to train her. In the latter the sheriff and two other friends decide to track down a gang of outlaws and in the process have many narrow escapes from death.

Disabled Veterans To Be Honored Sunday

The first Sunday in December, marking the fourth anniversary of Pearl Harbor, has been designated as Disabled American Veterans Day, M. L. Hart, commander of the Marion Chapter No. 22, D. A. Paul Henreid and Maureen O'Hara Starred in 17th Century Story of Sea and Love.

"The Spanish Main," starring Paul Henreid, Maureen O'Hara and Walter Slezak, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

This technicolor production is a picture of sea adventure in the later years of the seventeenth century. The love story involves three temperamental characters. Paul Henreid is a Dutch sea captain who is forced into piracy by early Spanish atrocities. Maureen O'Hara is a daughter of the Viceroy of Mexico and is kidnaped by Henreid. Walter Slezak is the governor of New Granada whom Meureen is to marry sight unseen.

As a pirate Henreid captures the galleon bearing Maureen, and marries her himself. But the other pirates who feel disastrous happenings, double cross Henreid and take the lady back to her own town.

Short features to be shown with "The Spanish Main" are a community sing, "Flitty Birdy" and the latest Paramount News.

"Hold That Blonde" starring Eddie Bracken and Veronica Lake, will be shown through Saturday.

Eddie Bracken is shown as a millionaire's son who has the unfortunate affliction of a slight case of kleptomania. He never remembers having stolen things and is never caught until he attempts to put them back. He is informed that the only way to shake this is to fall in love, so he meets Veronica Lake, who is an unwilling jewel thief working with a gang of killers.

A comedy, a sports picture and the News of the Day will be shown with "Hold That Blonde."

A midnight show will be given Saturday night with a stage show and a picture. On the stage will be "Asylum of Horrors" and "Isle of Dead" with Boris Karloff and Ellen Drew will be shown on the screen.

Davids St. Concern Building Addition

Work on the new addition to the Sanders automobile wrecking business at 161 Davids street will be completed in about six weeks, Joseph Azaroff, manager, said today.

Designed to house an automobile parts retail and wholesale establishment, the addition will consist of an entirely new building at an estimated cost of $9,000. Contractor for the job is the Steward Construction Co.

"Fallen Angel" Heads Ohio Bill

Alice Faye, Dana Andrews and Linda Darnell Starred.

"Fallen Angel" starring Alice Faye, Dana Andrews and Linda Darnell, is now being shown through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

This is the story of a not too well-to-do publicist Eric Stanton, who is thrown off a bus in a small town because of the lack of fare. He stops at a diner and meets the waitress there played by Linda Darnell. When he approaches the president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the town to try to persuade them to sponsor a show, he meets her sister, June, played by Alice Faye.

Unable to get the waitress off his mind, he forms a plan to get some money to win Stella, with June as his victim. He and June, come in one morning to announce that they are married. Stella is murdered and Eric is involved with her murder, being accused.

"Too Young to Know," starring Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton, will be shown for seven days starting Friday.

This is a lighthearted story of a young love, from its carefree beginning, through hasty marriage, into the troublesome years that follow. After a hasty courtship, two youngsters decide to settle down to being man and wife. Sally, who had been planning to be an actress, does not see why her former friends do not meet with her husband's approval. With neither of the two understanding each other's problems, they have many disagreements.

MONTH OPENS WITH UPSWING

Market Continues Yesterday's Trend, Although Advances Are on Modest Side.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—The stock market today started the new month with a resumption of the upswing which got under way in the preceding session although, with scattered exceptions, advances were modest.

Fractional plus signs predominated at the opening and a few wider gains were in evidence near the final hour. Dealings tapered after a fairly active get-away.

Park & Tilford and Eastern Air Lines jumped about 3 points each. Douglas Aircraft and Chrysler were up about 2. Lesser improvement was recorded for Bethlehem, Union "A," Warner Bros., Texas Pan-American Airways, Western Co., Southern Pacific, Cerro De Pasco and American Smelting. Hesitant were Anaconda, American Can, Sears Roebuck and American Telephone.

ANDERSON SETS 1946 FARM OUTPUT GOALS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — If farmers follow suggestions of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, they will reduce production of livestock products in 1946 but will produce more sugar, grains and tobacco.

Anderson's tentative 1946 production goals would keep total agricultural output near wartime peaks and fill civilian, military and export needs, he said.

The goals include 2 per cent less milk, 15 per cent fewer eggs, 17 per cent fewer chickens, 10 per cent fewer turkeys, 3 per cent fewer beef cattle the same number of lambs and 1 per cent more spring pigs than were produced this year.

The secretary suggested 31 per cent more sugar beets and 8 per cent more sugar cane to help meet a sugar shortage likely to continue into 1947.

Because grain reserves were depleted during the war, he urged the production of 3 per cent more corn, 9 per cent more barley, 3 per cent more grain sorghums, the same acreage of wheat and 23 per cent more rye.

With imported supplies of vegetable oils likely to become more plentiful next year, Anderson asked for a 10 per cent reduction in soybeans and 20 per cent in peanuts.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY has the perfection of poise, the protection against surprise, which are the perquisites of the successful actress. But she almost always lowers her defenses when she is alone with me and I was not surprised at her gasp of surprised dismay when she opened the envelope Georges had given me and drew from it the two photographs.

"Auntie Madge!" she exclaimed, with utter bewilderment in her voice. "This is that photograph, one of two, I gave Georges long ago. He gave me to understand they were both destroyed."

Then her mobile face hardened into anger.

"The unmitigated louse!" she anathematized. "To think, he's been carrying this around with him all the time!"

"Your uncle characterizes him as 'a conceited cockroach'," I said with a smile.

"Uncle Dicky's losing his grip," she commented grimly. "As I remember that alliterative epithet, it was 'a conceited capering cockroach,' and it fits Georges, too!"

Her vehemence drew an involuntary laugh from me, and in another instant her lips twisted into a reluctant grin. Mary was too volatile to hold anger long.

"I suppose it is silly to be upset with an—an insect," she said. "And I'm awfully glad to know he finally got religion and sent this back to me. I'm positive he concluded that theatrical coat, too, because Ned thought to leave it behind, and my darling's reformation isn't in the mood to have any concrete reminders of Georges brought to his attention."

"But tell me," she went on, "what on earth got into Georges and converted him to a realization of his sins? When he went out of here, well you know as well as I do, he was deliberating divorce—which, I grant you, he apparently sincere he was breathing."

I knew Mary had no love for Georges, but he has a normal woman's amount of vanity, and I feared my next words would be an arrow piercing that vanity.

Had To Speak Them

But I had to speak them, nevertheless.

"Olina was the revealist," I said, "and then I imagine the parting advice you gave Georges helped a lot also, to say nothing of that slap. A man rocked back on his heels that way, may be able to forget it under the stress of remorse, and other strong emotion, but I am sure the memory of it will linger on humiliatingly."

"I hope it will," Mary snapped vindictively, and something in her voice and eyes told me that her vanity had suffered a puncture.

But the next instant her gorgeous sense of humor took possession of her, and sent every other emotion skittering. She suddenly bent double in a fit of laughter so contagious that I found myself joining her.

"Auntie Madge!" she exclaimed. "You don't mean he went straight to Olina from that farewell scene he staged down here, and tied her all up in promises?"

Promised to Marry Georges

"I mean just that," I said. "Olina herself told me that she had promised to marry Georges, and Georges confirmed her words when he gave me those photographs to return to you."

"Well, I'll be everlastingly fried in olive oil—provided you can get any!" she declaimed. "Poor Olina! I'm afraid she's in for a bad time with that lad. But I didn't think she'd fall for so quick a switch."

I wondered whether her vanity or her risibles would respond to my answering comment.

"I don't think Olina considered it a quick switch," I said. "You see, Georges has been playing a role of devoted admiration to her for days."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Poor Appetite.

When a person has a poor appetite, naturally he is not likely to eat as much as he should and a loss of weight results. The loss in weight in such persons may be even greater than in those who suffer from frequent attacks of vomiting.

There is one type of poor appetite known as anorexia nervosa. A person with this condition loses weight slowly but steadily. According to Doctor John M. Berkman of Rochester, Minn., the behavior of such patients is much like that of a spoiled child. The condition usually occurs in young women.

They are indifferent and indecisive as to their reasons for not eating, and apparently are unconcerned about their condition. Doctor Berkman points out that even though these patients do not eat enough food to keep their weight up, they seldom suffer from anemia or lack of coloring in the blood or have any striking evidences of vitamin deficiency.

Anorexia nervosa often begins during the maturing period. By the time the patient reaches the physician, the original reason for the refusal to eat has often been forgotten. However, it would appear that the usual cause for the condition is either some conflict with the parents, some resentment against certain things in the home or school life, resentment against authority or disappointments over school or social achievements. Similar mental injuries are responsible for the beginning of the condition in older persons.

In treating anorexia nervosa the first step is to explain to the patient the nature of the disorder, in order to get her full cooperation. The diet at first contains about the calorie or heat value of the diet which the patient is accustomed to eating. Gradually the amount of calories is increased.

The diet is especially rich in foods high in protein, vitamins and bulk. This means plenty of meat, milk, eggs, fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals. The patient is encouraged and urged to eat everything in sight even though it may seem to cause some discomfort in the abdomen.

When the quantity of food estimated as sufficient is tolerated by the patient, no further increases are made. However, the diet is continued until about five pounds over the normal weight is attained. Breakfast usually is the most difficult meal. As a rule, it is helpful to have the patient eat about five times a day so that smaller meals may be given.

With this type of treatment it has been found that within about two weeks, body strength increases; the mental state improves and a cure results.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. M.: Will you please explain what causes my eyelids to feel heavy?

Answer: Heavy feeling in the eyelids may be the first symptom of some nervous system disturbance. It may also be due to general fatigue.

Careful study by a physician, preferably a neurologist, would be advisable.

(Dr. Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his column.)

First Aid To Ailing House

By Roger C. Whitman

BASEMENT FLOORS

Q.: During a heavy rainfall our basement floods. My next door neighbors have the same trouble, but across the street this does not happen. Can something be done to the drain in the basement to keep out the water during a heavy rainstorm?

A.: If the trouble seems to be due to the overloading of the street sewer, so that there is backing up during heavy rains, the house connecting pipe can be fitted with backwater check valve that will prevent the sewer from backing up. This valve is usually fitted to the pipe just outside the house. A sewer check valve can be had from any dealer in plumbing materials and your plumber could do the job. If there is a leak at the joint where the wall meets the floor, it can be plugged with roofing cement, melted and poured in.

Specks of plaster on bathroom tile floor may be removed by rubbing with steel wool and water.

* * *

SPECKS OF PLASTER

Q.: We have moved into our new house, and have found little specks of plaster all over the bathroom tile floor, in the tub, and also in front of the fireplace. I suppose these specks are the remains of the plastering job. How can we take them off?

A.: If the tile is not glossy or glazed, rubbing with steel wool and water should remove the specks of plaster. If the spots are stubborn, use very fine sandpaper. The specks in the tub can be removed by carefully scraping with an old safety razor blade.

Building Quiz

CRUMBLING CEMENT WALLS

Q.: My basement has poured cement walls. Several years ago the face of the wall began to crumble in various places. I plastered the places with a mixture of pure cement and water. That helped, but since then there has been more crumbling. Perhaps the original cement mixture was not rich enough in cement. When the foundation is firm again I would like to paint the walls with some suitable material. I would appreciate your advice.

A.: A good mason could take care of the trouble and give you a firm foundation wall. For a home job you could give the walls a coating of dense cement mortar. The walls should first be cleaned well with a wire brush to take off all loose particles, and then roughened by pounding with a cold chisel or pointed hammer to provide a surface to which the mortar can cling. The wall should be soaked with clear water, then painted with a mixture of cement and water of the consistency of cream. Follow immediately with a one-quarter-inch thick coating made of one part portland cement and three parts of clean building sand. When this mortar begins to set, the surface should be scratched (scored) to form a bond for the second and final coats, applied in the same way. Allow each coat to harden, but do not let it dry. To gain full density, the coating must be kept damp for at least four days. A suitable paint for masonry is a cement base paint, on sale at mason material yards.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

The rugged simplicity and charm of the ranch house which had its origin in the southwest is likely to find wide acceptance in post-war building says W. H. Schumacher (Petroleum Building, Oklahoma City), who designed this one.

His plan affords functional single floor spaciousness for a six-room suburban home. The red-brown roof covered with asphalt shingles for extra fire protection highlights the exterior. The sturdy chimney and low configuration give an appearance of solid comfort.

The three bedroom-two bath arrangement separates the sleeping area from the living area. The combination living room and dining area has an overall length of 38 feet and is 14 feet wide.

The kitchen includes a built-in breakfast nook with a circular seat. There is a large recreation room in the basement which runs the length of the living and dining area. There is also space for the heating unit and laundry. The screened porch off the living room, reached through sliding glass doors, faces the flagstone patio.

The house is 80 feet overall and calls for at least a 100-foot site. It is planned to face either west or east, thus placing the bedrooms in the south. Exclusive of land, the cost is estimated at $12,000 including heating plant and all built-in pictures.

Plan the New Home Wisely

Good Construction and Best Materials Cheapest in Long Run.

Select a reliable builder. Insist on a strongly built house with good materials. Plan a house that can be added to or taken away from over the years. Don't skimp on quality in construction, but try to make your budget provide as many as possible of the many new comfort and convenience features that builders are planning for postwar homes.

These are among the cardinal rules which all families should keep in mind in planning new homes to be built after the war, says the magazine Practical Builder of Chicago.

Difference in Upkeep

"A flimsy house will need repairs before a few years pass," the magazine points out. "A good well-built house, outside of painting, should be entirely free from upkeep for the first 10 years. Better build a little less and build well. The better you build, the larger in proportion will be your asset when you are ready to sell or trade it."

A reliable builder will not endanger his reputation by shoddy building. Homes already built are the best guide to reliable builders. Once your builder is selected, let him be your guide to new, good materials for your home. Seek his advice, as well as that of the lumber and building materials dealer. Use the latter's showroom as a place to see the materials that go into your home.

In general, the materials used will be pretty much the same, particularly for the outside of the house.

Don't expect poured plastic sheets for the outside. The materials that have proven themselves over the years will be your best choice for the future.

Although every reasonable precaution should be taken in building, families planning to build in the postwar era can be certain their homes will be better built than the homes of 10 or 15 years ago. Better methods of building are being used, and improved materials are available. Few of the older houses that are sometimes admired would pass a modern building code, or meet the standards of today's lending agencies.

WHY WASTE COAL?

One of a series of articles intended to help solve heating problems and conserve fuel.

In mild weather, such as we are experiencing this fall, there are only two periods during the day when heat is needed—early in the morning, and from sundown until bedtime. This a problem which can be solved by the proper regulation of the draft.

The check draft should be used to keep at a minimum the amount of air taken into the furnace, and the ashpit draft door should be kept closed. Shake ashes very sparingly, and then only when it is desired to raise the house temperature quickly. In this way six to eight inches of ashes can be maintained under the fuel bed at all times.

If the householder prefers to use lump coal, one or more lumps should be placed in the furnace so as to hold the fire during the time when little heat is needed. Or if there is an accumulation of slack or fine pieces of coal broken off from the larger ones in the coal bin, these may be placed on top of the fresh charge of coal just before the banking period. The fine coal will retard burning and will be utilized in the best possible manner.

If there is a sudden change in outside temperature all that is necessary in addition to shaking the ashes is to close the check draft and open the ashpit draft door about one-half inch, and then feed additional coal by the alternate method as described in our "Save Coal" firing chart which may be had for the asking.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES

O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q.: I am enclosing two leaves of a shrub in our foundation planting. One of the bushes died last winter and we would like to replace it, but cannot determine the name or variety. It grows three to four feet high. Please note that one leaf is edged with rust. What will control this condition? Mrs. F. R. S., Canton, O.

A.: The leaf that you sent for identification is the variegated form of the redtwig dogwood, as near as I can tell, from a leaf. It is sold under the name of Spaeth variegated dogwood. If you want to be absolutely sure of the identification, in case the red twigs are not noticeable, and you care to send me a bit of the twig with the leaves attached, I can very readily tell just what shrub it is.

It is not uncommon for a variegated leaf shrub as well as the golden leaf varieties of shrubs to sunburn or scorch when temperatures get to 90 degrees or more. This is the condition that you have on your shrub at the present time. There is nothing that can be done about it except to plant them where they do not get noon and afternoon sun, but merely morning sun.

Hands that rocked the cradle

NOW they fashion steel or brass. Delicate fingers measure to fine gauges to check and inspect. Even heavy parts are machined by women, for the 'Budgit' electric hoist does the lifting for them. This portable hoist opens up thousands of jobs that otherwise would be closed to the weaker sex. It enables women to produce as much as their menfolk did before they entered the armed forces.

'Budgit' Hoists are portable, electric hoists with lifting capacities of 250, 500, 1000 and 2000 lbs. They are priced from $119 up. Hang up, plug in, and use. For complete information, ask for Bulletin 348.

Old Age Pension Society Hears Two Speakers

Rev Nola West and Rev Mrs. James Wilson, pastors of the Assembly of God church, were guest speakers at a meeting of the Old Age Pension Society of Marion County Friday afternoon in the hall. Singing of "America" and salute to the Flag, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, opened the meeting. Invocation was given by R. H. Brandum.

As the text for her sermon, Rev Wilson chose passages from First Kings and Second Chronicles.

W E Sergent and Christian Ruth sang a duet, "Did You Think To Pray." Rev West and Mrs Elinor Sparks sang duets, "I Love My Savior" and "Jesus Is the One," playing their own auto harp and mandolin accompaniment. Rev West also presented several other selections, playing her accompaniment on the auto harp and harmonica. The choir joined the group in singing "Shall We Gather at the River" and "Jesus Saves."

William F Porter and Mrs Myrtle Taylor gave reports on recipients. Arthur Hershner presented an original reading. The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. Wilson.

Navy Says Senator's Son Back by Error

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — The Navy said today Seaman First Class Paul I. Stewart, 18-year-old son of Senator Steward (D-Tenn), had been returned "unintentionally" from the Pacific with a low discharge point score.

Stewart had only 18 discharge points, and ordinarily naval personnel are not returned to the United States for duty with less than 38 points.

The Navy said orders had gone out to a base in Hawaii to transfer a group of men to Norfolk, Va., for duty in connection with servicing of the fleet. Young Stewart happened to be stationed at the base, the Navy said, and was inadvertently returned.

HOG SURPLUS BRINGS FIRST PRICE BREAK

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 — From starvation to surplus in less than a month might well be the story of Chicago hog packers. The first three days of this week saw total receipts mount to around 96,000 head, compared with 59,500 for the same period last week. The first break in hog prices since last January resulted.

Swine prices generally have held at OPA ceilings all year. Good and choice barrows and gilts brought the $14.75 limit until Oct 9 when the ceiling was revised upward to $14 85 and most sows sold at $14 until the October trading went to the $14 10 limit. Prices broke sharply in Chicago this week with butcher hogs closing 50 to 65 cents lower at $14.15 to $14.35 and other weights off as much as 75 cents.

One reason for the overflow to Chicago markets, traders said, was the fact that interior Iowa stations and the southern Minnesota area consigned hogs here to divert the swine from their overburdened slaughter facilities.

The demand for beef cattle remained at a high level. More than 21,000 head of steers and yearlings, including heifers and mixed yearlings, brought the $18 OPA ceiling during November compared with the October top cattle quota of 17,931 head. Prices on cattle selling below $17 50, however, dipper sharply in late trade, the first downturn in several weeks

Fat lambs advanced to $15.50, the highest level since August, in Wednesday's trade but lost ground again in late sessions to close 10 to mostly 25 cents higher compared with last week's finish. Market observers said the trade should see increased lambs receipts next week as the higher subsidy rate goes into effect. An increase of 50 cents in the producer-owner subsidy payment began today.

LIGGITT ANNOUNCES HE'LL RUN FOR SENATE

Belle Center Republican Candidate for Reelection.

D A. Liggitt of Belle Center, Republican state senator from the Thirteenth - Thirty-First district which includes Marion county has announced his candidacy for renomination to that office, subject to the primary election in May next year.

"If nominated and elected I shall endeavor to fill the office in the interest of good government," Senator Liggitt said. "I shall continue to advocate such reduction of state taxes as will not jeopardize any essential function of state government and the return to the political subdivisions a just portion of state funds To these ends I shall support any sound financial policy of state administration."

Senator Liggitt is a member and chairman of the military affairs and public relations committees, and a member of the following committees: banks and loan associations, commerce and labor, elections and federal relations, highways and automotive and public works and state buildings.

SHERIFF SCOTCHES REPORT HE'LL QUIT

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 1—Rumors at the courthouse and on the streets here Friday that Sheriff Homer S. Roosa would immediately resign his office as the result of a divorce suit filed in Columbus were without foundation, the sheriff stated late yesterday.

Sheriff Roosa said that he is not planning to resign but is just sitting tight" and added he had no comment to make on the divorce action.

Roosa is accused of maintaining a "clandestine relationship" with a Columbus soldier's wife in a divorce petition filed by Robert P Smith, 24, of Columbus, against Mrs. Marjorie Ann Gordon Smith, 21, of 125½ West Fifth street, Marysville.

Something To Lose

A THUMPING majority of steel workers voting a possible strike over a $2-a-day wage boost adds another throb to the nation's reconversion headache.

It means that the steel industry can be paralyzed at the discretion of a handful of union leaders who have sold most of their followers the idea that there is everything to gain, nothing to lose, by going on strike.

But there is a great deal to lose.

Members of a union who strike, or threaten to strike, in violation of a contract made in good faith sacrifice the right to be taken at their word.

The right to bargain collectively is a dead duck unless the bargain is kept. If labor unions persist in making their promises worthless, they aren't going to have a chance to make any more promises.

If they persist in using the strike weapon willy-nilly, regardless of agreements and regardless of everything else, except to prove that they can paralyze industry at will, collective bargaining will become extinct before it has come of age.

The unions are challenged by their own power. They can use it to advance themselves. Or they can use it to ruin themselves. Union members who have been oversold on the proposition that they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by voting to close down industries had better brush up on the history of Italy and Germany. They had better remember what happened to the right to strike in Russia when things grew so bad that a weak government was overthrown by revolutionists. They had better take a long, thoughtful look at some of the leaders who are talking about the right to strike and the right to get more money and perhaps are thinking about something else.

It is no excuse to say that strike votes are taken by the government. The government can be wrong. In this instance, it admits it is wrong.

On the request of NLRB, the house committee on appropriations voted last Monday to make no further appropriations for government-conducted strike votes. The late President Roosevelt was right when he vetoed the Smith-Connally act because, among other reasons, the strike votes it authorized would "stimulate labor unrest and give government sanction to strike agitations."

The act was an attempt to stop wartime strikes. It was aimed at John L. Lewis, but everybody got hit. Labor leaders now are using the law like a boomerang, to get even.

But they are getting even at the expense of their own followers. Labor itself will take the rap for their spite-work, if it goes too far.

IN THIS community and dozens of others where industrial production is not an economic theory or an exercise in political strategy but a down-to-earth problem in making ends meet, three things are obvious.

1. We can't afford to stall.
2. Wages must be earned.
3. Costs must be paid out of income.

The United States wants steel and the things that steel makes. Steel workers want jobs. The industry is all set for a boom. Everything is all set, except the bargain on wages. A work stoppage doesn't make sense at a time like this—yet a work stoppage is implicit in the outcome of Wednesday's strike vote.

Wage adjustments are not impossible. No one is saying so. In the automobile industry, in the steel industry, in all industry, the wage rate can go as high as the combined ability of workers and managers to earn money—and no higher.

Management cannot pay out more than it collects in income, nor can a labor union pay out more than it collects in dues.

Government, under wartime powers, tells industry what it can collect. Industry passes along the information to workers. When workers tell employers what they want, employers must find out from government what the workers are going to get as their share of industry's income.

The edicts about pay increases that have taken the place of old-fashioned collective bargaining are being delivered to the wrong parties. Washington determines what steel and automobiles can be sold for, not steel and automobile manufacturers. No employer in these industries is at liberty to raise his production costs without first knowing what is going to be recoverable as income.

The government's basic policy is that price increases contribute to inflation, inflation hurts wage earners, therefore price increases must be held to a minimum. But the same government, testifying eloquently to its own confusion insists that wages can be raised without raising prices.

All this, of course, eventually will be settled somehow. The question is whether it will be settled sensibly, or whether everybody concerned will have to take a beating before light dawns.

A strike would be a beating. Everybody would get it in the neck—workers losing wages, companies losing income, the United States losing the steel that would put backbone into the postwar prosperity that is ours for the taking.

Truman Speaks Offhand Again

By WALTER LIPPMANN

His Remarks on UNO and Peace Deplored.

Once again the President has spoken offhand at his press conference on a topic of the greatest possible importance. This time his topic was not the atomic bomb but nothing less than how the peace is to be made. The reports agree that Mr. Truman not only said he was opposed to more meetings of the Big Three but that the United Nations Organization ought to be ready in about 90 days to handle the problems arising out of the war.

Now there may be a good deal to be said for not holding meetings of the Big Three. But the notion that UNO can now take over the business of settling the war is so fantastic that one can only hope that the President misunderstood the question he was answering at his press conference, or that his remarks have somehow been misunderstood. For no one could say what the President is quoted as saying who knows the history and structure of UNO, or our commitments, beginning with Mr. Hull's at the Moscow conference of 1943 all the way to those made by Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes at Potsdam.

The idea of turning over the settlement of the war with Germany, Japan, Italy and the satellite states to the United Nations Organization is if the President means it, contrary to all previous engagements and understandings, including the San Francisco charter itself.

Simple Test

There is a very simple way of demonstrating how ill-considered were his remarks. Is Mr. Truman prepared in 90 days to place Gen. MacArthur under the orders of the eleven governments, five of them with a veto, who are members of the security council? If he is, then he has suddenly gone from one extreme to the other. For he has hitherto objected to giving the Russians and the British an equal voice in Tokyo.

At the very same press conference Mr. Truman was talking about depriving the French government of its veto in German affairs. But if UNO is charged with settling the war in Europe and in Asia, there will not only be a French, a Russian, a Chinese, a British and an American veto on European affairs, but also on Japanese, Italian, Bulgarian, Hungarian and indeed all other affairs. And this veto will rest on a treaty which has been solemnly ratified by the United States senate.

The truth, as Mr. Truman must recall when he reconsiders his remarks, is that UNO was constructed on the basic understanding that it was not to be burdened with the occupation of enemy countries and the writing of the peace treaties. That was to be the business of the principal allies in each theater of war, working with those smaller countries which had played a substantial part in the war and were vitally interested in some part of the settlement. No one supposed that China, for example, which took no part in the European war and has no direct European interests, was to write and administer the German settlement or that Belgium, which is concerned with Germany, should have the same voice in dealing with Japan.

To turn over command 90 days hence the task of pacification and peacemaking to UNO is a certain way to wreck both UNO and the whole business of peacemaking.

A deadlock exists in Berlin, brought about because France will not agree to a central administration of Germany until there is an agreement about the Ruhr, the Saar and the Rhineland. The deadlock is costly and dangerous. But the President has received some exceedingly bad advice from Mr. Byron Price, who in his other observations about Germany has shown once more his great gifts as a reporter and his excellent judgment. Mr. Price has advised the President to "use the full force and prestige of American diplomatic power" against France to break the present deadlock in the control council at Berlin.

Proper Advice

He should have advised the President to use the full force and prestige of American diplomacy to break the deadlock which has existed since Potsdam over the settlement of the western borderland of Germany. It was a cardinal error, probably the cardinal error, of the Potsdam conference that we agreed to fix the eastern frontier of Germany and failed at the same time to fix the western.

To set up a central German administration in the Ruhr, the Rhineland, and the Saar before there has been a decision as to whether and in what degree these territories are to remain under German sovereignty, is to put the cart before the horse. How can there be a central German administration until there is an agreement as to where the authority of a central German administration is to begin and end?

The French are quite right in saying that if they agree now to put these territories under the control of Berlin, they will have lost their case before they have had a chance to argue it. The way to break the deadlock, therefore, is not to coerce President de Gaulle, who is not easily coerced, but to go to London and to Paris and insist on bringing about an agreement on western Germany which will be acceptable to Moscow, Brussels and The Hague.

This should have been Item One on the agenda of the London conference and if we had a European policy which put first things first, distinguishing what is urgent and necessary from what is secondary and transitory, this question would have had top priority in the State Department before Potsdam, and since Potsdam. For until it is settled it is impossible to deal intelligently with Germany.

Munich Forgets Politics

By GODFREY H. P. ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

MUNICH—People in this city which Hitler designated as the "capital of the Nazi movement" today seem more concerned with winterizing their bombed homes than in developing a new political life.

Wooden lattments are springing up to form new shopping centers.

In some places you see priests with cassocks tucked up working as carpenters to patch their damaged churches.

Hotels Limited

Before the war Munich had three hundred hotels with eight thousand beds. Now there are only forty-two with five hundred beds and many of these unequisitioned. Work is now being rushed on others.

Meanwhile, officially permitted democratic parties appear to be getting few recruits.

Some Bavarians told me "I never want to vote again. In 1933 I was a communist. Hitler came and I lost my job. This year I lost my job again for being Nazi. If I join another party now I may get fired again in 1960."

This may explain the general apathy. Political meetings are held but after the speakers all down there are no discussions, no questions asked.

Workers listen dumbly to employers' proposals and raise no points about unsound working methods. They seem to have lost all confidence to speak for themselves.

Communists Active

Communists were the first to organize cells in Munich under the leadership of a group of former political prisoners returned from concentration camps. Eight of them were confined longer than ten years. They are allowed to hold meetings but forbidden to publish political literature or wear uniforms, badges or armbands.

Among local Germans the general opinion seems to be there is little prospect of Bavaria's going Communist unless conditions worsen greatly.

The food situation appears better in the south than in other parts of Germany and prices are nearly normal. In fact, the Munichers' main grumble seems to be that the meat ration was recently cut to the same as the rest of the country.

On the other hand Bavaria is expected to receive three million repatriated Germans from Poland and the Sudetenland soon. There is a certain amount of anxiety too about lawlessness.

Drugs Scarce in Italy

By The Associated Press

ROME—Talking of penicillin to Italy's physicians is like talking to them of diamonds," said Dr. Charles Muzzicato of New York, national chairman of American Medical Relief for Italy (AMRI) summing up the acute need of this country's war-stripped hospitals for medical supplies.

The roentgenologist attached to the staff of the Goldwater Memorial and St. Lukes hospitals in New York, has surveyed hospitals and clinics in Naples, Rome, Milan, Florence and Bologna and expects to tour southern Italy and Sicily before returning home next month.

"Almost literally, doctors have nothing," he said. "I am surprised that they are able to do anything at all."

Airstrip Again Street

By the Associated Press

CALCUTTA—A strong link in the wartime defense network of Calcutta—a fighter plane strip located in the heart of the city's downtown section—has been returned to public use.

Sixty-foot wide Red road served as an RAF landing field during the dark days of the war.

Calcutta residents became accustomed to speedy fighter planes coming in at tree top level over Old Court House street and skimming the tops of the Great Eastern hotel and the governor's mansion.

When the Japanese threat to Calcutta subsided, the road was used as a storage area for military vehicles and supplies.

Science Tests Ready

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D. C.—More than 15,000 American high school seniors will be putting themselves on a three-hour test in competition for $11,000 in scholarships which eventually will finalists in the Science Talent Search.

Examinations have been mailed to more than 1,000 high school principals and teachers who will administer the tests December 3-7, at which time they must be returned to Science Clubs of America in Washington. Watson Davis says. The examinations are designed to reveal the student's ability to think and reason rather than memory or his fund of scientific knowledge.

The Search is sponsored by the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Temporary Housing

By Raymond Moley

WE HAVE had no residential building since 1942. A great deal of normal construction has been lacking for four years. This, in itself, would cause a tremendous housing shortage. In addition, the rate of marriages, as well as of births, has gone up sharply. Three and a half to four million GI families are already looking for shelter and, for the most part, unsuccessfully. In addition, better incomes are causing families to seek the expansion of their living quarters. It is cold comfort for OPA to declare that "for the next few years 4,000,000 families will have to double up." Since there are 35,000,000 families and households in the United States, this means that every ninth family must double up.

That is they will double up if something is not done about it. But in the face of this dire need the American people will certainly do something about it. We are not the sort of people who must wait for government to think something up. For a century and a half Americans sheltered themselves through private enterprise. We have not lost the habit of building homes.

Mistaken Foresight

The planless government planners have made no provision for this situation in any event. Moreover, our war-housing legislation contains an ingenius stipulation that war-emergency housing is to be torn down within two years of the end of the war. This stipulation originated in the belief of those who drafted and passed the legislation that after the war, labor and materials would be abundantly available for good residential construction and that flimsy makeshift houses would in the nature of things be empty.

Our housing wizards have forecast that in 1946 some 400,000 to 450,000 dwellings will be built. It was recently reported that Mobilization Director Snyder and his assistant Robert Nathan are working feverishly to get 100,000 units ready next year. It seems clear to almost everyone that material for anything like 400,000 dwellings will not be available.

Jobs for Unemployed

But Mr. Snyder predicts that we shall have from five to seven millions unemployed by April and possibly 8,000,000 by autumn. This reservoir of labor with what material is available should be adequate for providing temporary housing over the next two or three years. For we clearly must not only retain the temporary houses we have but we must put into effect sweeping plans for still more temporary shelters. The principles which should govern this emergency job should be these.

1. For greatly congested areas, there should be large construction of trailers and the organized moving of army barracks.

2. Temporary housing built with what materials we have, should as far as possible, be built on permanent foundations, since there is more foundation material than lumber.

3. In large cities vast areas of roof space are unused. Here is space for additional upper floors and penthouses. Metals including aluminum, and plywood would provide very satisfactory materials for such additions.

4. Single residences in rural and small towns and suburbs can with great economy of material, be enlarged into double houses.

5. The construction of ready-made parts should be started on a large scale almost immediately. This might be introduced as an activity of city governments without serious strain on their budgets, since such parts could be sold to eager buyers.

Such suggestions as these are the product of imaginative Americans. They offer employment, economy of material and definite relief for a need which is bound to be serious for two or three years.

Words of the Wise

What is called liberality is often merely the vanity of giving.—La Rochefoucauld.

Peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world.—Woodrow Wilson.

Peace rules the day where reason rules the mind.—William Collins.

If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.—Romans 12:18.

Peace is the happy natural state of man; war his corruption, his disgrace.—James Thompson.

What we have in us of the image of God is the love of truth and justice.—Demosthenes.

To this end was I born and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth.—Jesus, John 18:37.

Summary

The strikes go on—
Fights crowd the scene
With you and I
Just caught in between

One of the songs of our earliest childhood can remember Mom and Pop humming it was "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." We supposed the author had crossed the Jordan many years ago and were surprised to read that its author, a Charles Coborn, just died in London at the age of 93. The number was once a world wide musical hit, and ran

As I walk along the boulevard
With an independent air,
You can hear the girls declare
"He must be a millionaire."
You can hear them sigh and wish to die—
You can see them wink the other eye
At the man who broke the bank of Monte Carlo.

Major John Reed Kirkpatrick acted as one of the jurists on one of those Sunday afternoon what's your-problem programs. The program conductor had called attention to the fact Jess Dorr had once been a great Yale football star and an all-American end. John then gave his case, whereupon the woman composer demanded: "Have you ever been a mother?"

Geography

By Truman Twill

A couple of captious critics are probing about a reference in a recent column to Chicagoans going swimming in Lake Superior. Other readers, if they noticed it were either too polite to say anything or assumed that Chicagoans had a right to go swimming wherever they please.

If a dirty digger asks: What otter? we are ready for that too. There are a few Twill readers than chided us for letting Chicagoans go all the way to Lake Superior for a dip when Lake Michigan was closer. We approve it.

For the last three years, along about this time we have begged the public not to buy a steam engine for Christmas and not to do anything gone against our wishes yet, which puts a damper on everything. We are renewing the appeal. Please no steam engines.

To get back to geography: it was originally to have Chicagoans go swimming in Lake Ontario, but at the last minute we decided we had been thinking of Lake Ontario. The two lakes always get mixed up. Then we remember where Lake Huron was. If any reader, thank you are sharp, get out your map and draw your notion of the location of the Great Lakes.

Something else to try over on the map is the Mississippi. All of us learned how to spell it, but that's about as far as we went with the Mississippi River. By way of an overture, tell us the names of five states on the east bank of the Mississippi. Then five more for the west bank. Easy, no doubt. Well, that was just anyway.

For serious business, line up a blank sketch of New York harbor with the Statue of Liberty the same, or try to give the customers a blank sketch where to look for Lithuania on a map of Europe. Try to place five of the South American republics in their approximate positions on a blank outline map of South America.

Tell the class what to look for to locate Pore. Show the lady where to find Kodiak. Everybody has been reading about islands in the Pacific the last four years and rattling off their names, but does anyone care to show the class where to look for the Carolines? And Guam? And the Shetlands, where ponies come from?

Where and what is the Firth of Forth? Can you point to within a thousand miles of Lake Winnipeg, what does the Beaufort Sea look like? Can you tell where is the Salton Sea, why and what for? Can you tell the state of Michigan look like and what is the general idea of the arrangement of states in Central America?

Let's have no more wise-cracks about Chicagoans swimming in Lake Superior. Everybody knows their bathing suits at home and no swimming there, of course.

Finest of the Fine . . .
When we opened our new funeral home six years ago, many told us that we had the finest establishment of its kind in the city. Though appreciative of their tributes, we were not content to rest on our laurels. We have continuously made improvements, latest of which was the remodeling and enlarging of our display rooms. We shall continue to offer improved facilities, and couple therewith truly professional funeral service at a cost surprisingly low.

They're Everywhere

One Marion mother and daughter were discussing the item that appeared in this column recently about students rattling off school assignments on the bus and making an excellent showing. The mother was heard to tell her daughter when she starting talking to a classmate about some work that day, that she had better keep her lessons confined to the school room because "you might be sitting right next to someone on the newspaper and never know it." P. S. She was.

Walking on Slant

It's always amusing to see the semi-horizontal lean that passengers must affect when walking on a moving bus. If the vehicle is just starting up the slant is backward, if it is well under way or stopping, the lean is almost a 45 degree angle forward. It looks silly when you watch other passengers "leaning" into the walk, but when you have to do it yourself, you find it is very necessary to make any headway.

SUSPECT DELAY TO AVOID TAX

Government Leaders Jab at Manufacturers in Reported Holdup of Merchandise.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Government officials are confining themselves to verbal jabs on the ticklish question of whether manufacturers are withholding consumer merchandise to benefit from a Jan. 1 tax cut.

One official who asked that his name not be used said the barbs are intended to arouse public indignation to prevent any widespread delivery delays pending elimination of the excess profits tax at the start of the year.

This official said there is no way government could compel delivery of goods.

The latest dig at producers comes from OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, who said in discussing reasons for the clothing shortage:

"I think • • • a most important factor is the tax situation.

"Companies can look forward to a windfall if they withhold shipments now and release them next year when the excess profits tax is out of he picture."

Aside from the tax motive, Bowles asserted processors of cotton fabric for clothing "have been holding up deliveries" while waiting for OPA to decide whether they are entitled to a price increase.

He promised a ruling soon.

Bowles also gave his reasons why OPA has been unable to reduce clothing prices six to seven per cent this year, a goal set by the agency last spring.

He said OPA's plans were based on assumptions the "volume of fabric shipment would be higher than it actually is."

MARION MAN IN SERIOUS CONDITION AFTER MISHAP

R. E. Vandewater In Hospital at Chillicothe

The condition of R. E. Vandewater, 36, of Hane avenue was said to be serious today by authorities at the Chillicothe hospital where he was admitted following a headon automobile collision Wednesday.

The collision was between the Vandewater car and one driven by Bruce Anderson, Chillicothe High school youth. State patrolman there said the accident happened on Route 35 about three miles west of Chillicothe when Anderson failed to return in time to his side of the road after passing another car.

Mr. Vandewater was recently transferred here as drug salesman with the Walgreen Drug Co. T. Wayne Jenkins of the Walgreen store here, went to Chillicothe after getting word of the accident and returned to Marion last night.

Mr. Vandewater was knocked unconscious and the high school youths in the other car were forced to break the door glass in order to extricate him from the car. He suffered serious head and face lacerations and undetermined chest injuries when he was thrown against the steering wheel of the car.

The six youths in the Anderson car were members of the Unioto basketball team. They were returning from a practice game when the accident happened. One of the boys was admitted to the hospital, the others escaped with minor lacerations and bruises.

Mrs. Vandewater is in Chillicothe with her husband.

Shortage of Coal, Chilly Fogs Face "Merrie England"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press World Traveler

LONDON, Dec. 1—This man and wife team of globe-trotting columnists has swallowed so much fog since arrival in England that we've got to get some of it off our aching chests.

Winter in England spells fog. It tortures your bones, gets in your eyes and throat, and makes your stomach ache. And when it really gets on a rampage it stops virtually all out-of-doors activity.

D. Mackenzie

Britain as a whole has been suffering from the bleak cold.

Despite the fact that this is one of the great coal producing countries, there is a terrible shortage of this fuel because the demands of war have made it impossible to find anything like enough miners. A working woman told me yesterday that she hadn't been able to buy any coal for her little home since last May. That perhaps is an extreme case, but millions are short of fuel.

Faces Grim Season

This means that England is facing a grim winter which will produce wide-spread distress. The suffering from lack of coal in Britain, however, will be multiplied on the continent, for in most of the war-torn areas there is little or no fuel at all. Many people, especially old folk and children, will die of cold before spring.

I've known my London fogs these thirty years. A real pea soup fog is never to be forgotten. They don't get so many of these fellows nowadays, so the weather man tells me, because of smoke abatement and better drainage of London areas but he admits there is no indication that ordinary fogs are lessening.

When a pea souper comes—for come they still do—it ties this city in a knot. I've seen them so bad when I used to live here that the only people who would move about without getting lost were blind folk who had learned the uncanny art of depending on other senses than sight.

When a pea souper closes in on the city all vehicular traffic has to stop running. If you want to mail a letter across the street from your own house, someone has to stand in the doorway and whistle so that you can get back.

All fogs are hell on clothing, as Mrs. Mac has discovered. She didn't say "hell" but I dare say that is what she has in mind, for a lot of wearing apparel is ruined by the soot with which the damp air is loaded. She has found, too, that it takes anything up to five weeks to get dry cleaning done, and that the cleaning frequently ruins shirts and the like. You are warned to cut all buttons off clothing and to remove all zippers before sending things to the cleaner, because the cleaning fluids ruin metal or button materials.

However, please don't overlook the real point of this column, buttons and zippers can be replaced, but you can't replace the lives or the health which will be lost in the coming bitter months in Europe.

W. A. WALKER, FORMER MARION RESIDENT, KILLED

Meets Death in Accident at Pocatello, Idaho.

Mrs. G. W. Smith of 267 Leader street received word recently of the accidental death of a brother, W. A. Walker, 58, of Filu, Idaho, a former Marion county resident.

Mr. Walker was killed instantly on Nov. 12 while switching cars in the railroad yards at Pocatello, Idaho when he stepped from his train into the path of an approaching engine.

He was born March 10, 1877 east of Galion to S. A. and Tacy Marlow Walker. The late parents were school teachers known through Richland and Crawford counties.

He was married in 1916 to Mrs. Jessie Freeman who survives. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Bernice Grindstaff of Filu; a son, Forest Walker, serving in the Pacific area, three sisters, Mrs. Smith of Leader street, Mrs. Sherman Johnston of 364 North Grand avenue, Mrs. G. C. Freese of Crestline, a brother, R. M. Walker of Filu, a half brother, W. G. Walker of Eldon, Ia., and a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Cook of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Johnston here had not seen Mr. Walker since he returned 24 years ago after attending his father's funeral. He left Galion originally in 1911. Masonic funeral services were held Nov. 20 in Filu with burial there.

ARMY DROPS POINTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — The war department made ready today to release 15,000 doctors and 5,000 dentists from the service under a reduced discharge score. The score for these medical officers went down from 80 to 70 points, or three less than the new critical total for other officers which became effective today. Medical personnel with 42 months of service or who are 48 years old are eligible for discharge now.

WOULD AID GERMANS

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, Dec. 1—American Lutherans have applied to Washington for permission to extend relief to the Germans. Dr. S. C. Michelfelder, American representative of the Lutheran world convention said today. "It is not a question of advocating a so-called soft peace," Michelfelder said, "but rather granting aid to Germans who were not Nazis, so that they can help themselves."

BATON ROUGE, La. — The Baton Rouge Parent - Teachers' Assn. has started a cultural program for public school students of the city. The program will be operated in conjunction with Louisiana State university, and will include two operas.

GETS HIS WASHCLOTHS

INDIANAPOLIS—Several women shoppers had to chip in and help a soldier just back from the Pacific buy washcoths. They were limited one to a customer and the soldier, who said he had left all his belongings in the South Pacific, needed more than one. The obliging civilians gave him their purchases of the scarce item.

MILES TESTIFIES. Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, Army intelligence chief in 1941, is shown as he told the joint congressional Pearl Harbor investigation committee the account of the Army Signal Corps' failure to transmit Gen. George C. Marshall's warning message to the commanders in Hawaii.

CODE

1941, by a Japanese agent in Honolulu to Tokyo about the activity of the American fleet was not translated until Dec. 16.

Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, who headed the Army's intelligence division until January, 1941, testified many of these messages were intercepted by outlying stations which could only take down the coded Japanese and relay it to Washington for processing.

He said in some cases intercepted messages had to go by air-mail to Washington.

Miles declared no specific warnings were needed—other than the general war warnings—of an attack on Pearl Harbor, since the Hawaiian establishment had been built as a defense against any Japanese move.

Arrest Bucyrus Boys on Car Theft Charge

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 1—Three Bucyrus youths, one 14 years of age and the others 15, were apprehended at 2:45 a. m. today by Galion police in Galion for the theft of a Buick coupe last night.

The car, stolen from the rear of the Bucyrus school around 8 o'clock last night was reported to Bucyrus police, who sent out a radio call which started Galion police searching the town. The boys were picked up in the car parked in an alley off North Liberty street. They were taken to Galion police station pending a hearing in juvenile court.

DR. FINNEY BACK FROM ARMY DUTY

Will Reopen Dental Office in Near Future.

Dr. H. Raymond Finney, Marion dentist, recently placed on inactive duty after serving almost five years with the Army, returned here last week where he plans to resume his practice soon.

One of the first reserve officers to be called from here to active duty, Dr. Finney held the rank of major at the time of his release. He was stationed first at Camp Blanding, Fla. and later was transferred to the southwest Pacific area where he served for a time with a general hospital unit on Tinian in the Marianas Islands.

Following his separation from the Army, Dr. Finney spent a short time with his wife and family in Gainesville, Fla., where they have been making their home during his months of service. Mrs. Finney and children, Carol Anne and Robert, plan to return to Marion in the spring to join Dr. Finney.

Dr. Finney expects to reopen his offices at his previous location, 286 South Main street, in the near future.

3 MARION RESIDENTS INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Slippery N. Y. State Road Causes Auto To Overturn.

Three Marion residents are recovering at their homes today from injuries suffered when the car in which they were riding overturned after hitting a slippery place in the pavement near Rochester, N. Y., last Monday. They are Mrs. J. E. Oliphant of Mt. Vernon avenue, Miss Ettie Oliphant of Windsor street, a member of the faculty at Central Junior High school and Miss Margaret Seiter of South Main street, a teacher at the Pearl street school.

Miss Oliphant suffered a broken collarbone, Mrs. Oliphant sustained chest injuries and Miss Seiter was cut above one eye and suffered bruises, according to reports. The accident occurred as Mr. and Mrs. Oliphant and family, Miss Oliphant and Miss Seiter were returning from Rochester where they had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Oliphant's daughter and family.

Two Richwood Brothers Get Service Discharges

Two sons of Richwood residents received discharge from service recently. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Robertson have received word that one son, Quint Robertson, received his discharge at the Army separation center at Camp Tyler, Texas, Nov. 17. He and his wife are making their home in Dallas, Texas. Entering service in January, 1941, he was overseas in the European theater of war 22 months. At the time of discharge, he was a staff sergeant. Another son, Oliver Robertson, was discharged Nov. 12 from the U. S. Navy separation center at Great Lakes, Ill. He is making his home near Marion. Enlisting in the Seabees April 13, 1942, he was stationed 17 months in the Aleutian islands and was 10 months in the southwest Pacific area. When discharged he was chief carpenter's mate.

About 400,000 barrels of the crude oil produced daily in the United States during the war came from fields discovered since U. S. entry in the war.

NYC VETERAN RETIRES

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., Dec. 1 — Ray H. Rafferty retired yesterday after serving for 50 years as a mail clerk on the New York Central railroad. During his service he covered more than 2,500,000 miles and was never in a serious accident.

Cost of U. S. Armed Forces $11 Billion for Eight Months

This is the third of five articles prepared to show [illegible] and what the $11 billion Victory Loan is needed for.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 30 —During the eight months ending June 30, 1946, the federal government will spend an estimated $11 billion for the pay and subsistence of the armed forces, according to figures prepared by the treasury department.

On V-J Day the Army had over 8 million men under arms. Within two months the figure was down to 7 million and 3½ million more will probably be out by Christmas. By next June it is expected that fewer than 2 million men will be in the Army. The Navy hopes to release more than 3 million men to civilian life by next summer.

Largest Item of Cost

The cost of paying and maintaining the Army and Navy during the period of demobilization is the largest single item of direct war costs which the government will have to meet in the next eight months.

This $11 billion item, an average of about $1-1 3 billion a month, is down from the monthly outlay of close to $2 billion for pay and subsistence at the time the war ended. Several factors militate against a faster decline.

Although demobilization is progressing rapidly, there will probably be an average of something like 6 million men to pay and feed during the rest of the fiscal year.

Large savings will be effected, of course, as the pace of discharges is stepped up. But offsetting some of this saving in pay and subsistence will be the mustering-out pay, ranging up to $300, that will be given to every man and woman upon discharge from the armed forces to help them get resettled in civilian life. Mustering-out pay may average close to $300 million a month during the rest of the fiscal year, a total of between $2 and $2½ billion for the eight months.

Time Lag

Expenditures for pay and subsistence may be somewhat higher than one might expect because of the time lag between the rate of demobilization of the armed forces and its effect on treasury expenditures. In other words, final bills for food must be paid and all checks issued must be cashed before they are reflected in treasury figures.

The $11 billion item is part of $26 billion which the treasury expects will be spent in the next eight months for direct war obligations. Indirect war costs will amount to $8 billion and other governmental expenses to $4 billion. Of this total of $38 billion, taxes are expected to pay $22½ billion, leaving a deficit of $15½ billion.

The $11 billion which the treasury hopes to raise through the Victory Loan would provide funds to help meet this deficit.

Government in Canada operates through three main branches — the federal parliament and provincial legislatures, Federal and provincial executives and the judicial system.
